

I think the multiple confusing restrictive state laws for DNC are very harmful for businesses. It takes money from companies to obtain , process and comply to all these multitude of regulations. The bad companies won't bother, the good companies get hurt. DO NOT CALL itself is very bothersome to me in that it should affect ALL or NONE. Politicians and Charities are more difficult on the phone than is a home improvement guy you just say no to. Consumers have always been able to say to any individual company do not call me again. And the legal companies would have complied. I think this whole think creates more waste to government tax dollars than is reasonable for the minor hassle of telling a telemarketer don't call me again. Dollars that could be better spent helping people. It is even more ridiculous that it is being doubled and tripled by 52 times with every state on the band wagon. It is most harmful to the very heart of the USA , small businesses and independent business people.
